

Abstract of the Disclosure

A system and method utilizing distributed caches. More particularly, the present invention pertains to a scalable method of improving the bandwidth and latency performance of caches through the implementation of distributed caches. Distributed caches remove the detrimental architectural and implementation impacts of single monolithic cache systems.

SJ-27646

Patented by SJ-27646